THE COURTS

The Naylor Internal Revenue Suit-▲ Commission to Take Testimony To Be Appointed.

WOODHULL AND CLAFLIN.

Bearrest of the Ex-Brokeresses and Colonel Blood in the Truman Suit.

THE COURTS FOR DECEMBER.

The closing month of the year is by far the siest of any in the courts. Judges, counsel and clients alike are anxious to bring to trial suits hat have been lingering through the year on the does not convene till the 23d of the month. en it will meet to render decisions on ases argued at the last term. Some of these decis are important and impatiently looked for, in Chambers, Chief Justice Davis will preside In Chambers, Chief Justice Davis will preside. Some important motions are on the calendar, and there still remain some important motions argued before Judge Donohue, including the injunction against the Police Commissioners. In regard to interfering with operatic and theatrical performances on Sunday. Judge Van Vorst will hold Special Term. There is an unusually large calendar. One of the most prominent cases is the suit of Samuel L. Tredwell against Raiph M. Pomeroy, Effiaham H. Nichols and others, making an inquiry into the management of the Central Branch Union Pacific Railroad. As Colonel Sellers says, "there's millions in it." One case of special public interest, heard before Judge Van Brunt, is awaiting decision, the Drew "pool" case, also having "millions in it." Judge Van Brunt will hold Trial Term, Part 2. in it." One case of special public interest, heard before Judge Van Brunt, is awalting decision, the Drew "pool" case, also having "millions in it." Judge Van Brunt will hold Trial Term, Part 2. The Court of Oyer and Terminer will be held by Judge Barrett, who during the last term, and his aras experience in holding this Court, has displayed most admirable fitness for the place. The trial of Gorôner Croker is set down for henday, and it is most likely will occupy the whole week. There are also on the calendar the cases of several unlicensed liquor dealers. Meantime the argument on the motion to admit Schwab, the convicted liquor dealer, to ball, is set down for Monday.

There are heavy calendars in all the branches of the Superior Court, Judges Mobel, Curtis and Van Vorst will hold General Term; Judge Seegwick, Chambers; Judge Sper, Trial Term, Part 1, and Judge Freedman, Trial Term, Part 2.

Equally heavy calendars are in the Court of Common Pleas. The Equity Term will be held by Judge J. F. Daly, Chambers by Chief Justice Daly; Trial Term, Part 2, by Judge Larremore, and Trial Term, Part 3, by Judge Loew.

THE NAYLOR INTERNAL REVENUE SUIT.

The Naylor Internal Revenue suit came up for hearing yesterday in the United States District Court, before Judge Blatchford, on motion by the United States District Attorney, Mr. Bliss, for the issuing of a commission to London to take addichase by Naylor & Co., in the English market, of steel rails and fish plates exported by them to this country. It is alleged that Naylor & Co. had im-ported the goods in question into this city and entered them at the Custom House at a considerable undervaluation. A suit has been commenced by the government against that firm to recover the amount of this undervaluation, which is understood to be a very large sum of money. Mr. Biles stated that the case had been fixed for trial in the February term of the Court; that he did not ask for any stay, and that, if the commission was issued, there would be time for it to come back before the trial began. Through this commission he proposed to put certain interrogatories to Mr. Hay, one of the partners of the house in the London firm, as to his sources of knowledge, and as to whether he testified in regard to certain facts from his own knowledge, from what others told him, or from books. It was stated that the goods were purchased at an optional credit of six months, and that if they paid cash they were entitled to a discount of two and a half per cent. He also desired to put questions to Mr. Layman, another of the partners, as to the manner in which payment was made for each of the invoices, and whether they took six months' credit, or paid cash and got two and a half per cent discount. He wanted first to get from Mr. Hay all the facts that he knew of his own knowledge, and from his partners the dates of the payments and other facts important to the prosecution to know. Mr. Wheeler, with whom was Mr. Joseph H. Choate, appeared as counsel for delendants in opposition to the motion. He said that counsel for the government had already had an opportunity of fully examining the writnesses. He (Mr. Wheeler) wanted to try the case. It was notified to be tried in February. If the commission was to be sent out again to examine those witnesses it could not be back before the ist of February, and that would throw the trial over for another term. The suit was a large and important one. It had been a long time pending, and he was most anxious to have it uisposed of. He also attated that the witnesses it was no winderable discousion Juage Blatchiord said it able undervaluation. A suit has been commenced the space covered by the direct questions. After considerable discussion Juage Blatchiord said if any testimony salculated to throw light on the case could be had it would be well to have it. The commission will be appointed in a few days.

WOODHULL-CLAFLIN IN COURT.

There seems to be no end to the legal entangle. ments in which that celebrated tripartite confederation-Colonel Blood, Mrs. Victoria Woodhuli and Tennie C. Claffin-are continuously involved. Before starting on the European trip in August last it will be remembered that Mrs. Truman undertook to put an estoppel on Isst it will be remembered that Mrs. Truman undertook to put an estoppel on their projected foreign perambulations by causing their arrest just before the steamer on which they were to sail started, upon a charge of indebtedness to her in the sum of $400, claimed to have been lett with them while acting as brokers in Wall street as a margin in stock operations. Mr. Charles W. Brooke, their counsel, at once came gallantly to their rescue, and, having deposited security for more than the amount claimed in lieu of bail, they were allowed in depart in peace. Thus ends the first chapter. The next chapter in the series, for there are doubtless many more to follow, occurred yesterday. Mr. James W. Stillman, counsel for Mrs. Truman, procured from Judge McAdam, of the Marine Court, an order for the rearrest of Colonel Blood and Mrs. Woodhall and Miss Cladin on the same charge. Upon this order the parties were forthwith arrested and brought before the Court. Mr. Brooke appeared again on the scene and again accomplished the release of his distinguished clients, a result achieved simply through producing a certificate of the Sheriff of the amount still in his possession—more than enough to cover the claim. Of course the prosecuted tripartite, upon being discharged, retired from the court room in a comparatively happy mood. They were somewhat indignant, however, and insist that its chief object was to compel term to spend the coming Sabath in their old quarters in Ludlow Street Jail.

ESSEX MARKET POLICE COURT. A Farce from Behind the Scenes. Before Judge Kilbreth.

Jennie Hughes applied to Judge Kilbreth for a warrant for the arrest of John Lindeman, bill poster, of No. 13 East Broadway, and his assista Robert Southern, and also for Mr. J. Lloyd Haigh, to whom she was married last April. The complainant made a direct charge against these three persons of libel, inasmuch as she alleged that John Lindeman and his assistant had posted, or caused to be posted, certain bills around the city with the following announcement:—"Papa Marctzek, mee Jennie Highes;" which announce ment she said was intended to degrade her and injure her in her business, which is that of a variety singer. Sergeant James and Roundsman Horbelt, of the court squad, arrested Lindeman and southern yesterday morning. Mr. J. Lloyd Haigh, who is accused of having rurnished Lindeman with the posters has not yet been arrested. Judge Kilbreth committed the two prisoners in default of $2,000 bail each to answer.

A MODERN GUY FAWKES.

[From the Salem (Oregon) Statesman.] Michael Fennell died recently in San Francisco. He was a remarkable man, and we suppose his four years ago it was our fortune to be associated when he was in a retrospective mood we were en-tertained by a rapid sketch of his younger life, which may now be related. He was an Irish patriot of the most resolute and enthusiastic sort; plics. During the rebellion in Canada, about office. During the receipion in Canada, about thirty-seven years ago, Mr. Fennell was one of the leading spirits of the insurrection, and was detailed for the most danger-ous work. He travelled the Dominton over, and went back and jorth to Ireland as a spy. When it had been decided to blow up the Parliament House he was chosen to perform the desperate enterprise, and his associates failing at the critical hour, he undertook it alone. A large sewer ran under the building, which, at low tice, would admit the entrance of small boats. Fennell ascended this passage, arranged his fuse along the wall upon hooks and staples, and on the lollowing night was re-entering with a boat load of powder when the alarm was given and he was compelled to abandon the enterprise and fly with the utmost expedition. The town was alarmed, the boat load of powder was discovered affoat in the sewer, and the British government was amazed and confounded at the andacity of the unknown colonial Guy Fawkes. In the meantime the daring young Irishman was on his way to the United States, and we believe he never thought proper to return to Her Majesty's dominions. So far as we know, this is the first publication of his agency in that daring and terrible revolutionary undertaking. Like Carl Schurs, he was a revolutionist and reformer by nature; a man of desperate conscientiousness and wholly without fear. Gigantic in stature and strength, genie in demeanor, affectionate, generous and devoted in disposition; yet to redeem Ireland from English domination, we are almost persuaded that he would have blown up the city of London. In San Francisco, where he has lived some twenty-dve years, Mr. Fennell was almost universally known and respected, and his death is sincerely lamented there by thousands of iriends, and here at least by one.

A.—A.—THE CHILIAN EXPOSITION.

A. The New York Commission for this Exposition have the pleasure of announcing to our people that they have two months more, viz., to February 1, 1875, in which to make applications for space at this "Month American World's Fair." Though this Commission had been ordered by Chill has just arrived. Every day brinss additional evidence that the United States, as respects the variety, character, number and value of contributions, will stand in the tront rank of all the nations there represented. In the natter of the character of our articles we appear to follow the deas of the Chief Directory at Sanulago, whose secretary writes:—"Everything from the United States will be a sample from which numerous orders will be sent; so remember that we desire and especially need such things as will aid us in pushing on our moral and material advancement rather than articles of mere luxury."

Such things are those pertaining to agriculture, manufacturing, mining, mechanic arts building, engineering and navigation. While things in these departments, which have done so much for our own country, are especially desired, every linaginable thing usually exhibited at industrial fairs will not only be admitted, but very much desired at this one, and all will equally be allowed space, free of charge. We compensate for distance the control of this.

We are now applying to side bar wagons a simple attachment, which produces A PERFECTLY EARY, LEVEL RIDING WAGON, ontirely free from rattle or "creak." and siving increased strength and sarety, without adding to the weight.

With this improvement we are also using (after a thorough trial during the past three years) the parallel or straight arm axie, running with greater precision and less friction than any axie ever used for speeding.

Gentlemen interested in draving matters are invited to examine these improvements at our factory. Broadway and Forty-zeventh street, or at our warerooms, Fitth avenue and Fourteenth street.
